Application for Roadside Attraction Sign

Roadside Attraction signs were originally placed at a few select locations across Route 66 in all 8 states. The Association updated, replaced, and added new signage to Arizona's Route 66 in 2019. If you would like to nominate a roadside attraction to receive a designated sign, please complete the form and email to Nikki@historic66az.com. The Association will print signs annually. The applicant will be responsible for identifying a location to install the 2 signs and the method of attachment either on a building/structure or on poles cemented into the ground. Signs can be collected from the Association's headquarters in the Kingman Visitor Center. Installation and installation costs will not be covered by the Association.

Please include a few sentences you believe should be printed on the Roadside Attraction sign. For example, the Powerhouse description is as follows, The Powerhouse, Arizona's oldest known reinforced concrete industrial building, generated electricity from 1909 to 1938. After serving as a substation and later a recycling center, it was renovated to its current use and condition in 1997 by the "Powerhouse Gang".
